

DAILY RECORD-UNION

MONDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1887

The Record-Union is the only paper on the coast outside of San Francisco, that receives the full Associated Press dispatches from all parts of the world. Outside of San Francisco it has no competitor, in point of numbers, in its home and general circulation throughout the coast.

SAN FRANCISCO AGENCIES.

The paper is for sale at the following places: P. Fisher, 1000 N. Market; Exchange, who is also Sole Advertising Agent for San Francisco; Grand and Palace Hotel; News Stand; Market Street; Ferry and Junction of Market and Montgomery Street News Stand. Also, for sale on all Trains leaving and coming into Sacramento.

TO-DAYS LEADING NEWS TOPICS.

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury, Daniel Manning, died on Saturday. Mrs. Stanford has been endowed a Children's Home, at Albany, N. Y. The returned home is the foremost producer of minerals among the nations.

While returning home on Christmas Eve, loaded with presents, a widow and her two children were run over by a locomotive and killed. A secret box has been discovered beneath the car's box in St. Petersburg theater. The railroad employees in the Pennsylvania coal region have received orders to quit work.

THE ROAD TO OREGON.

The excursionists to Oregon over the completed line of rail between this city and Portland, returned almost wildly enthusiastic concerning the region traversed by the road, and filled to the lips with glowing prophecies of the future of the road as it is open up to commerce, and of the settlement of Northern California and Southern Oregon it is to promote and accomplish. Until this excursion was made, there had not been given to the public any adequate idea of the magnitude of the work of building the road, and the herculean task involved in pushing through the northern mountains. The San Francisco Alta, whose editor formed one of the party, says:

The railroad is the most stupendous construction in the world. Its completion is a victory for civil engineering, the like of which will not be duplicated abroad. Those who would rival it in future must find their field under the sea and under the land.

And continuing the importance of the road, the Alta adds:

Having conquered and passed the mountains between the two States, this railway now becomes indispensable to the commerce of each. But, aside from its value as a commercial highway, it is the most important military road in the Union. The most of its construction, and great guns, have been prepared one-tenth the price of the same in Europe. It makes available, when the Federal Government demands it, a route of communication that is not to be duplicated elsewhere. It is a route of communication that is not to be duplicated elsewhere. It is a route of communication that is not to be duplicated elsewhere.

We have frequently, and for years, called attention to the immense importance of the road to the northern and central sections of the State. Generally, it has been supposed that the subject was fully understood, but it is now developing that even the most sanguine friends of the road, and believers in its commercial importance, have not risen to a level with its real value to California and Oregon. It is not going too far, in the light of present business calculation, to speak of the line as one of the chief arteries of trade in the Union. The time will come when its cars will roll through communities numbering their people by millions, and be carrier to the commerce of sections, the production of which will surpass, in variety and extent, any other region upon the globe.

TERIBLE THINGS TO COME TO PASS.

Whenever the Mormon priesthood is driven to a corner and about to meet defeat upon some pet project, such an one, for example, as they are now condoning, the admission of Utah—they begin to prophesy dire evil to all who oppose them. This was the case upon the expulsion from Missouri; it was true of the exodus from Nauvoo; it was the resort of Brigham Young when Johnson's troops set out upon the march to Utah; the prophetic doctrine was indulged in when General Connor occupied Fort Douglas, and trained his guns Salt Lakeward; it was the trick of the Apostles when investigation began into the Mountain Meadows massacre; and prophesying of sad times was indulged in when Connor resolved to put polygamy under its heel. Now that the hogrows fact of pushing Utah into the Union with a two-faced Constitution, that shouts against plural marriage, but leaves a loophole for its recognition when the Territory is once a State, Elder Pratt has fore-shadowed what we must expect, according to a revelation the "Lord" of the Mormons, he says, has made to him. In 1891, New York city is to be swallowed up. In 1892, Boston is to be kept it company, and the next year Albany is to disappear from the economy of civilization. Anarchy is shortly to prevail in the nation, and war is to involve thirty-four millions of our people in a bloody struggle. In 1888, Utah is to become a State; Joseph, "the martyr," is to come out of the land of the unknown in 1891; Christ is to accompany him, and the two are to open the graves and the Mormon saints are to arise; but only those who have faith will be able to see them.

To prove that the prophecy does not wholly exclude desolation to the Mormons, one of their smaller cities is to be destroyed by an earthquake, and half the inhabitants will meet death. Butte City, Montana, is to be destroyed shortly afterward. While wheat is to be worth six cents a pound in Utah, elsewhere in the United States a bushel of wheat will be worth a bushel of silver. After Boston, New York and Albany, Carson City, Nev., will be shaken down by an earthquake. The Indian tribes are then to be rallied, put on war-paint and proceed to lay waste many places, Lincoln, Neb., being the first. Earthquakes, attended by the special agency of the "Lord," are to rack the ribs of earth. Kings will quake upon their thrones, and everybody lay the Latter Day Saints to be supremely miserable. In view of all which, as a peace offering let Utah be at once admitted to the Union. Every one who has interfered with them should withdraw objection, in the hope that all these dire things may not come to pass. What a wretched good manner it is to refrain from profane vituperation when we are told that there are thousands of deluded Mormons who believe all this insufferable rot of "prophecy."

THE PRODUCTION EXHIBITS.

The great success attending the Placer county exhibit in Los Angeles is very gratifying. It has demonstrated that to a great extent misapprehension prevails among Eastern visitors concerning the products and the climate of Central and Northern California. The exhibition is disabbing the minds of the incoming tourists to the south of much error. That the

PLACER COUNTY EXHIBIT.

Los Angeles press is so very nearly silent concerning the Placer exhibit is an evidence that it is having a telling effect.

The exhibitors ought to be encouraged and aided to continue their enterprise to the full limit of possibility. It is a legitimate and excellent method of advertising, for it gives ocular proof of the claims made in the immigration literature of the central and northern sections. The exhibits on view at the rooms of the State Board of Trade in San Francisco are also attracting great deal of attention from Eastern visitors and dispelling erroneous impressions. The good results of these exhibits are manifest in increased travel into the Sacramento valley, and greater willingness to examine into the claims preferred for it as a desirable section for home-seekers.

We ought to manifest jealous concern that Sacramento county's exhibits at the State Board's rooms are kept up and fresh, and made fully illustrative of our varied resources, and especially of the productive capacity of the county and its climatic character.

There was a brutal prize-fight in San Francisco on Friday night, and no interference by the authorities. No concealments were made; the police knew it was to take place, and the rooms named. A proprietor of an athletic club loaned his hall for the disgraceful affair, and a faint attempt was made to give it the character of an athletic exhibition. The men used only two-ounce gloves—worse than no gloves—and one of the roughs was beaten and battered until he was insensible, and his face pummeled into a condition that made him unrecognizable. What excuse the San Francisco authorities can make for permitting this disgraceful affair to take place it is impossible to even surmise. Spasms of virtue overtake the metropolis now and then, and a great howl goes up from the press about two years ago against vice and vicious influences. Yet such exhibitions as that referred to do not appear to present themselves to the journals of San Francisco as demoralizing and brutalizing to the last degree. A community that tolerates such barbarous sports cannot hope to purify the social atmosphere by convicting a grand rogue now and then, while it refuses to prevent slogging, and catering to the vicious and debased elements.

GENERAL NOTICES.

I have not used all of one bottle yet, I suffered from catarrh for twelve years, experiencing the most distressing symptoms in the throat, chest, and bowels, and was almost blind. I tried various remedies without benefit, until I used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I have had no more bleeding, and the bowels are regular. I feel better than I have for years. J. G. Davidson, with the Boston Herald, formerly with Boston Journal.

Advice to Mothers.—Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP should always be used when children are colicky, or have the wind, or suffer at once. It produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little child awakes as bright as a button. It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, cures the bowels, and is the best known remedy for all the troubles to which infants are subject or are liable to. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Mrs. J. M. W.

The best place for a child to have its printing done. J. Johnston & Co., 200 J Street, Sacramento, Cal.
